In Rhetta's Garden.

BY MARY L. B. BRANCH.

It was only a little spot south of the house, but violets blossomed sooner there than anywhere else, and great bursting pinks made the air spicy while other people's were only in bud. There were daffodils in the grassy border, and blue bells, and blue spider-lilies. There were two rose bushes, one cinnamon and one damask, while double sweet gillyflowers sowed themselves and came up every year along with mignonette and chrysanthemums. It was a sweet, fragrant, old-fashioned little garden, which Rhetta's mother had tended and taken pleasure in, and now it was Rhetta's. There she worked all her spare half-hours, sowing and watering, weeding and transplanting, till her little hands were brown, and her cheeks like her own cinnamon roses. Aunt Dorcas, in the kitchen, used to wonder 'how on airth that child could be so content all alone out in her posy bed!'

But Rhetta was not so often alone of late, since they had taken a boarder. Ralph Callender found that the pleasantest path to the house lay through the little flower-garden, and when his jobs of copying failed to occupy his time, what could be more natural than to use his leisure helping the blushing gardener? It was he who carried away all the weeds, divided the white peony roots and reset them, and dug more thoroughly than Rhetta ever could around the dear old rose-bushes. Over their work they fell talking, as young people will, and already Rhetta's father began to watch them a little anxiously above his spectacles as he sat on the porch, while one of the neighbors had remarked privately to Aunt Dorcas that it was a pity young Callender was not a man of fortune as well as of family.

In truth, riches had taken unto themselves wings and flown away from the Callender's a year before, so that Ralph, instead of becoming junior partner in an old and prosperous business, saw nothing before him but what his two hands could earn, and being totally unprepared for such a prospect, he had to take a little time to get used to it, and to find out which way to turn. Meanwhile he had drifted to this suburban town, and waiting to find a situation as clerk or accountant, did copying to support himself and boarded at Rhetta's.

It was the day they had been transplanting touch-me-nots, and Ralph had thrown himself down under the plum tree for a respite, while Rhetta pulled the faded blossoms from a primrose. He might have been misanthropic enough at that moment if he had chosen for the last line of copying lay upon his table finished, with not so much as a hint of an order for any more. Worse than that, a clerk's place he had been hoping for had that very morning been given to another. If he had got it, he could have spoken to Rhetta at once.

His glance followed her as she bent over her plants, her garden bonnet dropping back from her bright brown hair, and his fingers sought instinctively a little ring that hid in his vest pocket. The old Callender pride had come to this, that he only waited for the barest chance of being able to earn a living before he offered heart and hand to pretty Rhetta Wood, whose bonnie face was all her dowry.

But he could not help letting love color his words a little when he said, presently, to Rhetta, as he watched her: 'When I make my fortune, you shall have green-houses and hot-beds, and gardens laid out on terraces.'

'Like Colonel Porter's?' laughed Rhetta, blushing over her trowel. 'Oh! have you ever seen his place, Mr. Callender? It's over on the west side.'

'I think I have passed it,'' answered the young man, indifferently. 'Big tree, three terraces, ribbon beds, and a peacock, on the lawn; is that the place?'

'Yes isn't it splendid!' exclaimed Rhetta. 'I always go that way when I take a walk by myself; and oh! how I do long sometimes for things I see the gardener throwing away—slips and cuttings and roots that he thins out. Perfectly lovely things!'

'Why don't you ask him for them?'

'Ask him?' and Rhetta caught her breath at the very idea of her doing so audacious a thing. 'Why, I wouldn't dare.'

'Don't you know them?—the family, I mean.'

'No; how could I? Rose Porter and I went to the same school, and when she rides by and sees me she bows and smiles; but that isn't being acquainted. She is as beautiful as a princess. It is time for her to be at home now; she has been in Washington all the spring.

Ralph Callender made no answer. He was busy weaving a true-love knot of grass blades, and when it was done he gave it to Rhetta. She blushed again over it, and went on talking about flowers.

'I wish I could get some slips of Colonel Porter's geraniums,' she said; 'he has so many kinds, and I have only this little pink one. And I want a root of day-lily very much, and some tea-rose cuttings, and a double Genoese violet; a blue salvia too, and— Oh, Mr. Callender, look! There is Rose Porter now driving up the street in her pony phaeton. Isn't she lovely?'

As the jaunty basket phaeton moved slowly by, a bright, pretty face glanced from it, smiling cordially at Rhetta, and then was over spread by a look of sudden recognition and pleased surprise at sight of Ralph Callender, who took his hat off respectfully.

'Why, do you know her?' asked Rhetta, amazed.

'I find I do. She and my sister Sally became great friends two years ago at Newport—or was it Nahant? And Miss Porter spent the holidays at our house the next winter. I thought it must be she, when you described her.'

Ralph Callender paused and gazed reflectively at the ground. He was recalling that gay holiday season when Rose Porter and his sister were the belles of their set. He could have counted his friends then by the hundred, and now—'Poverty does make a difference,' he thought bitterly. All who had it in their power to aid him turned the cold shoulder. He was simply a poor man seeking employment, and he felt at odds with the world.

Rhetta, grown suddenly shy, pulled away the dead leaves from a pink root and said nothing. Newport! Nahant! And people like the Porters for intimate friends. It seemed to remove Ralph far from her quiet, even life, and to set him where she had no part.

The basket phaeton was now seen returning down the street with is pretty occupant, who stopped her ponies opposite the cottage with such an evident intention to speak to Ralph Callender that he at once went out of the garden and stood in the road at her side. Rhetta saw them shake hands in the most friendly manner, heard Rose's musical laughter and sweet voice, though she could not distinguish the words; and in a few moments more, to her surprise, Ralph stepped into the phaeton, sat down by Rose, took the reins in his hands and drove rapidly away, with a backward glance and smile, which to Rhetta seemed to say: 'She is an old friend, you see!'

But when he did not come home to dinner she thought it strange. Her father and Aunt Dorcas made no comment, for Ralph had often been absent at that hour when seeking for employment. Rhetta did not mention that he drove away with Rose Porter, but a neighbor, who had watched them, came in during the afternoon and spoke of it with great interest. Aunt Dorcas at once felt a great interest too, and Rhetta found it so trying to listen to their remarks and surmises that she slipped out of the house to her garden, and did hard weeding in her flower beds for two hours without sparing herself. But she heard every step that passed by on the sidewalk, and knew that Ralph Callender did not come.

The afternoon waned restlessly away. He would surely come back by supper-time; and Rhetta, in a fresh gown, with pansies at her belt, hummed little songs as she moved about setting the table for Aunt Dorcas.

'I wouldn't put on that dish of honey" said Aunt Dorcas—'not till you see whether he's coming.'

'Oh, he'll come,' said Rhetta; but she stopped singing.

Mr. Wood came in, washed his face and hand at the sink and sat down in his place at the table. Aunt Dorcas passed him a cup of tea.

'Where's Callender?' he asked, looking around.

'Why, haven't you heard?' said Aunt Dorcas. 'He drove off with Rose Porter, and we haven't caught sight of him since.'

'The Porters are old friends of his,' said Rhetta flushing up.

'Hum! hum!' muttered her father, as he drank his tea from the saucer, in which he had cooled it.

Aunt Dorcas now questioned the girl as to all she knew about this old friendship, and at the close said, with the air of one who meant to do her duty by all, no matter how mercilessly: 'Well, like as not they'll make a match of it. Birds of a feather flock together.'

Supper was over, cleared away, and all the dishes washed, but still Ralph Callender did not come. As it grew dark, Mr. Wood strolled off to chat with the neighbors, and Aunt Dorcas, putting on her bonnet and black silk shawl, went to the weekly prayer meeting. Rhetta, left free from comment, went up into her little garden, and leaned against the plum tree with a strange dull pain gnawing at her heart. It seemed like days and weeks since Ralph drove away with, smiling, pretty Rose Porter. And she herself has begun to think of him as somehow her own. That very morning, under that very tree, there had been in his looks and in his tones touches of tenderness that had filled her heart with subtle happiness. But now it was all over; in an instant she had lost him. Rose Porter had taken him away, and though he might come back he would never be the same Ralph again. She felt a girlish certainty of that. The little bright dream was over.

At first she did not blame Rose. Very probably she had loved him two years ago, and had been influenced to give him up on account of his poverty, and now, regretting the step, had come to reclaim him.

'Well, I can take my turn, and give him up too,' thought Rhetta, with great hot tears springing to her eyes. 'Only I can never drive after him and bring him back in a phaeton.'

And at that she threw herself upon the dewy grass and wept unrestrainedly. She was too young to be capable of the terrible, tearless sorrow with which an older woman may meet bereavement and heart-break. She only knew that everything had changed since morning, that Ralph had gone away, that she was very, very wretched, and that no one must know of it.

The fire flies flashed in the grass, the flowers were heavy with dew, the air was full of the fragrance of mignonette, heliotrope and roses, but Rhetta did not heed them. She only felt that night was kind to make such darkness and solitude in the garden that no one could see her or hear her, poor miserable little Rhetta Wood crying for a lost happiness that had never really been hers. And now it seemed to her that Rose was cruel, from the midst of her wealth, her luxury, and her dozens of lovers, to come swooping down upon this one chance of bliss in a lifetime. For Rhetta was sure that in all the years to come she should never, never marry. That was all over from this forth.

The crickets hummed about her, the nightmoths brushed by her unheeded; the moon rose, but she did not know it. She was thinking how she should live all her life long in the little old house. After a while her aunt Dorcas would die, and she would be left alone with her father. Then after a while he too would die, and she would live on there, an old, lonely woman.

From this reverie she was aroused by the stopping of wheels, and cheerful voices at the gate.

'Rhetta! Rhetta!' shouted somebody in joyous, manly tones.

She rose to her feet in the moonlight, bewildered and uncertain. Was she dreaming, or was it really Ralph calling her?

'Rhetta, is that you under the plum tree? Come here for a moment to the gate.'

Yes, that was Ralph calling her. With girlish celerity she smoothed back her disordered hair, and ran to the gate. There he stood, his arms filled with flowers, which he loaded upon her, while Colonel Porter's coachman, who had brought him home, was almost staggering under the weight of an immense basket, full of bloom and fragrance, which he made haste to deposit on the garden walk.

'Everything is here,' said Ralph, gayly—'the geraniums, the day lilies, tea-rose bushes, and the double violets. Roots, slips, cutting, all you wanted, you have them now, and I'll set them every one out for you.'

'Oh, how beautiful! how beautiful!' murmured Rhetta, very softly and gently. She was wholly overcome by this strange ending of her passionate grief.

The coachman departed, leaving the two lovers alone in the moonlit garden. Lovers they were, for Ralph drew Rhetta close to his heart, while he placed upon her finger the ring that had waited hidden in his pocket.

'You know what that means, darling?' he said, fervently. 'My way is clear before me now. Colonel Porter has given me a chance in his own business, beyond anything I dared to hope. You don't know how hard it has been for me to wait till I had a right to ask you to be my own little Rhetta always—always!

Happy Rhetta! The moon ought to have laughed right out to see how her face had changed, it was so full now of smiles and blushes.

Aunt Dorcas, hurrying home an hour later, eager to explain how she had gone to sit awhile with poor old Mrs. Davis, who had sciata, was taken all aback by hearing merry voices under the plum-tree, and finding Ralph and Rhetta there at work with trowels setting out roots and tying up plants.

'Rose Porter sent me all these!' exclaimed Rhetta, triumphantly—'all this great basketful of loveliness and luxury, and we must set them every one out to night, because night is the best time, and they will get the dew.'

'For the land sakes!' ejaculated Aunt Dorcas. 'Don't ye want the lantern?'

'Oh, the moon is as bright as day,' said Ralph, as he paused to choose a place for a fine blue salvia.

'Well! well!' the old lady exclaimed; and then, as if she dimly comprehended that something in the glamour of youth and romance might make it a thing to be desired to dig in gardens at unusual hours, she said no more, but went quietly into the house.

A WHALE HUNT.

Pursuing the Gigantic Fish in a Boat Containing Two Large Guns—The Destructive Whale Bomb's Work.

A Santa Cruz correspondent of the San Francisco Alta California writes: The quartermaster of the Aggie returned from a cruise to Monterey this morning, and is glowing with the consciousness of his bravery in participating in a whale hunt that resulted in a capture. The Montery Whaling Company is about the oldest institution of the kind on the coast. The business office, store room, and eating and sleeping apartments of the company are in a white abode building in the western suburbs, and a half mile further south is a high cliff, whereon is located the company's lookout. He is armed with a powerful glass, and a tall mast is rigged with ballards for hoisting a signal when game is sighted.

The hunting tools consist of three of the regulation double pointed boats in use by whalers the world over, five long oars to each boat, two hundred fathoms of line smoothly coiled in tubs in the bow, and two guns to each boat. The larger of the two has the proportions of a young cannon and is mounted on a pivot. The missile discharged from it is a steel bar, four feet in length, and provided with a folding barb, that opens out when the harpoon buries itself in the whale's interior. This takes the place of the old time harpoon, and is much more certain and effective. The lighter gun is fired from the shoulder, and looks like a large sized fowling piece. It is an inch and a half bore. It is used to put the finishing touches on the whale after the harpoon has made him fast, and the method is to fire an explosive bomb into a vital spot. The bomb is an inch and a half in diameter by eighteen inches long, the butt-end being winged with rubber tips, after the manner in which an arrow is feathered, to secure guiding power. It was early in the morning when the white signal fluttered to the top of the staff of the mast on the cliff, and, having previously obtained permission to join the hunt with Captain Marino, the quartermaster was speedily seated in the sternsheets, awaiting the signal to shove off. This was soon given, and six miles to the northwest the three boats came up with their game, which proved to be an unusually large specimen of the California gray variety.

The gigantic fish rolled lazily about on the top of the water, all unconscious of impending danger, and did not even deign to notice the approach of the boats that came up on either side and behind her. A hundred feet away the men lay on their oars, and Captain Mariano sighted over his swivel-gun. The men bent over their oars, with every muscle ready to pull or back water at the slightest hostile movement on the part of the enemy. It was a moment that seemed an age of awful suspense to the green hand, but suddenly the captain had a fair mark presented, and pressed the trigger. The boat quivered under the shock accompanying the report, and the eye could plainly catch the flash of the harpoon as it cleaved the air and buried itself out of sight somewhere in the right shoulder. Attached to the steel missile was the stout manilla line coiled in the bow, and it bore the appearance of a flash of brown lightning as it zigzagged through the air after its powerful motor. The whale hardly seemed to comprehend the trouble that had overtaken her at first, and it was fully half a minute before she emmitted an angry snort and started for the bottom at a rate that made the line smoke and emit sparks as it ran over the bows Both the captain and the boat steerer peered uneasily into the clear depths as the line stopped running, and a minute later the former shouted: "Back all! Back hard!" The The five ashen blades bent and quivered with the strain put on them, but it was none too much, as the boat was scarcely a dozen feet away when the huge bulk of the infuriated whale rose to the surface and spouted twin columns of brine high in the air, a bucket or two seeking the back of the reporter's neck for a resting place as it descended. Before the animated waterspout could repeat the dose the boat was out of range, both of the fire-extinguishing apparatus and the terrible flukes that soon commenced to thrash the water into foam. Her contortions were so violent that the Captain could not get in a shot with his bomb-gun, which he raised and lowered half a dozen times without pulling the trigger. Finally the flukes quit their thrashing, and like a flash the leviathan dashed away at a terrific rate, burying the boat's bow between two walls of water fully eighteen inches high, but the speed was such that scarcely a drop entered the boat. This gait was kept up for a good ten minutes, and then the speed commenced to slacken, and the wounded monster swam easily and quietly on top of the water. The living tug came to a total standstill at last, and pulling around to a broadside position the Captain was given his opportunity.

The second explosion was followed by the whistling of the rubber-winged bomb, which buried itself in the great mass of blubber with a dull kerchug. Scarcely had the smoke cleared away from the bow before the muffled boom of the bomb exploding in the historical residence of Jonah sounded the death-knell of the poor old whale. The victim's huge bulk grew animated again, but for only a moment. The flukes thrashed violently for a few seconds while the waterspouts became tinged a warm red. Struggles and spouts became more and more contracted, until, with the last final effort, the inwardly-wounded monster roiled over and expired. The other boats made fast, and a hard pull of three hours landed the prize on the beach near the try-pots.

Judges in Satin Gowns.

The judiciary all wear big, flowing gowns, made like a bishop's gown, of black satin, writes the Picayune's Washington correspondent. To see nine of those mighty, dignified and awesome gentlemen, strung out all in a row in their big arm chairs, all glaring steraly—in their official character, mind, for in private life some of them are the most delightful and gracious of men—down on a poor little mouse of a lawyer is a spectacle that had always a fascination for me. I used to go in again and again to delight in this tableau. Naturally I scraped acquaintance with the doorkeeper, and one day, as I was slipping out, he asked me in a hospitable way why I didn't stop longer. I told him frankly the speeches were so dull, and then besought him to let me know some day when a really eloquent lawyer was going to make a fine speech. He threw back his head and began an uproarious laugh, recollected that sound travels, looked scared, clapped his hand to his mouth, and, when duly composed, answered: "Bless your soul, man, they don't make fine speeches in there—they expound the law." And I humbly admit that, for the first time in my life, I became aware that in the Supreme Court of the United States the judiciary listen to the law—no eloquence nor rhetoric.

Once a lawyer, as green as I, got up to address the supreme bench. He began with quotations, flourishes and gush of pathos. One of the "Mr. Justices" stopped him, "We want nothing but the law, sir," he said.

THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES.

Hon. Chauncey Forward Black for Governor.

Hon. Chauncey Forward Black, the Democratic candidate for Governor, is a son of the late Judge Jeremiah S. Black, and was born at Somerset, in this State, in November, in 1839. He was educated at the Monongahela Academy, in West Virginia, and afterwards attended Jefferson College, in Washington county. He was under instruction at Hiram College at the time the late President Garfield was a student there. A friendship was established between the men, and their relations were most cordial up to the time of the death of the late President. Young Chauncey studied law with his father, and in 1861 was admitted to the bar of Somerset county. He practiced but little, the profession of the law not suiting his tastes. Literary work was more suitable to his tastes, and Mr. Black began as a correspondent for several of the daily newspapers. For six or seven years he was a regular contributor to the columns of the New York Sun, and his letters showing the inside movements of Pennsylvania politics always attracted considerable attention. Although he has not published any books written by himself, there are numerous publications from his prolific pen in existence under the names of other persons. Although he has a manifest liking for the whirl and excitement of politics, he did not become much of an active politician until he was brought forward four years ago as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor. He was, indeed, an aspirant for the nomination as Congressman in the York and Cumberland district in 1874, but was defeated by Hon. Levi Maish, the gentleman who placed him in nomination for Lieutenant Governor in the State Convention of 1882. By that body he was placed second on the Pattison ticket on the first ballot by a vote of 176½ to 73½ for George H. Irwin, of Dauphin. In 1880 he was a member of the Cincinnati Convention, and voted for Judge Field at first, but changed his vote to General Hancock. He went through in 1882 with the rest of the Democratic ticket. Mr. Black is credited with being the author of a revival of the so-called Jeffersonian system of politics, which consists in the establishment of societies throughout the country for the study and practice of the Jeffersonian principles. He is the President of the organization of that name in York county, at the capital of which he resides. For many years before he was made Lieutenant Governor nearly all the platforms adopted by Democratic State Conventions were his handiwork, and he always attended the Conventions well provided with planks of all sorts. His counsel was sought by the leading men of the party, and his acquaintance has been extensive with the prominent men of the country of all shades of political opinion. Mr. Black married the daughter of Hon. John L. Dawson, who represented the Fayette district in Congress and was a prominent politician in his time. In personal appearance he is tall, of good physique, and bears a strong resemblance to his distinguished father.

Colonel R. Bruce Ricketts.

Colonel R. Bruce Ricketts, who received the nomination for Lieutenant Governor, comes of Scotch-Irish parentage, and was born at Orangeville, Columbia county, Pa., on April 29, 1839. He was educated at the Wyoming Seminary near Wilkesbarre, and was reading law when the Rebellion broke out. He promptly entered the Union service, and having assisted in recruiting a battery of artillery, was mustered in as a member of Battery F, First Pennsylvania Artillery [Forty third Regiment], on July 8, 1861, and promoted to be First Lieutenant, Aug. 5, 1861; to Captain, May 8, 1863; to Major, December 1, 1864, and to Colonel, March 15, 1865. Battery F was furnished during the month of August, 1861, with horses and equipments and four smooth bore pieces. As early as September 12 following it was ordered to join Gen. Banks' command at Darnestown, Md., and from that date on was in active service constantly until the close of the war. For a time the battery was divided into two sections, one under Lieutenant Brockway, and the other under Lieutenant Ricketts. The latter had its first engagement December 20th with a body of the enemy's artillery and cavalry, which was attempting the destruction of Dam No. 5 on the Upper Potomac. For more than three full years from that date. Ricketts was always in the front, and his battery became one of the most famous in the Union Army. In almost every one of the great engagements of '62, 63, and '64 in Maryland and Virginia, and in scores of minor conflicts, it was prominently engaged and at Gettysburg especially it did brilliant service in assisting to repel the fierce, terrific onslaught of the Confederates upon the right of the Union lines. In this battle Colonel Ricketts lost forty horses and twenty-seven men, and the ground on which his guns were planted is among the historic spots of this great contest. He was under fire one hundred times, and engaged in 57 battles. At the close of the war Colonel Ricketts returned to Wilkesbarre, and has since been engaged in managing his large lumbering estate at which is known as North Mountain in Sullivan county. He has been an active and consistent Democrat ever since he reached manhood, but has never been an office-holder.

William J. Brennen.

William J. Brennen, the nominee for Auditor-General, was born in the South Side, Pittsburg, about 34 years ago. His parents, Irish working people, were among the early settlers there. He received a common school education, and was apprenticed and learned the trade of a machinist. He followed that trade until 27 years of age, and saved money to fit himself for the legal profession. He read law with Colonel J. K. P. Duff, his present partner. He was a delegate for Tilden at the St. Louis Convention of '76, when but little more than 21 years of age. He has been a delegate to several Democratic State Conventions, and is a member of the State Committee now, and is serving his second term as Chairman of the Alleghany County Committee. He was counsel without compensation for the coal miners charged with conspiracy over in Washington county; is a cousin of Gilbert Rafferty, the coke operator, is unmarried and a total abstainer from intoxicating drinks.

Democratic State Ticket.

For Governor—
CHAUNCEY F. BLACK, of York.

For Lieutenant-Governor—
R. BRUCE RICKETTS, of Luzerne.

For Auditor-General—
WILLIAM J. BRENNEN, of Allegheny.

For Secretary of Internal Affairs—
J. SIMPSON AFRICA, of Huntingdon.

For Congressman-at-Large—
MAXWELL STEVENSON, of Philadel.

Democratic County Ticket.

Representatives { JOHN A. WOODWARD, LEONARD RHONE.

Prothonotary—L. A. SHAFFER.

District Attorney—J. CALVIN MEYER.

Congress—HON. A. G. CURTIN, subject to the decision of the congressional district convention.

Senate—HON. P. GRAY MEEK, subject to the decision of the senatorial district convention.

THE Democratic State Committee will open headquarters at the Girard House, Philadelphia, some time this week yet. And then for some solid campaign work.

THE Prohibitionists convened in state convention yesterday in Harrisburg, to nominate a full ticket. It is taken for granted that Hon. C. S. Wolf, of Lewisburg, will lead off as the prohibition candidate for governor.

BLAINE, the Plumed Knight of Maine, has opened the campaign in that state with addresses in which he discusses the Fishery Dispute, the Mexican Trouble, the Tariff and the Labor Question. Well, talk is cheap and he a good ways off from the presidency in 1888.

THE Union county Prohibition Convention which was held at Lewisburg on last Friday afternoon nominated the following ticket: Assembly—C. S. Wolfe, Lewisburg; Prothonotary—J. Chauning Harvey, Lewisburg; Associate Judge—Thos. O. Gutelius, Mifflinburg; Coroner—Dr. Thos. H. Wilson, Lewisburg.

PRESIDENT Cleveland is at present in the Adirondacks, where he pleasantly spends his vacation in company with Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Folsom. The newspaper reports say he is a successful fisher for Salmon Trout, as he averages one fine specimen of the finny tribe every day.

ON Monday last the Democrats of Union county held their convention at Lewisburg and nominated the following ticket:

Congress, J. T. Baker, Lewisburg.
Assembly, Wm. E. Smith, Lewis.
A. Judge, Thos. C. Barber, Limestone.
Prothonotary, S. C. Mercer, Hartley.
Surveyor, Jacob Farley, White Deer.
Coroner, Dr. Jas. Kleckner, Mifflinb'g.

BULGARIA'S Ruler, Prince Alexander, was dethroned, the event taking place after midnight, when the revolutionary leaders bluntly made known to the surprised prince what their mission was. Upon his refusal to yield he was made a prisoner. The dethronement creates intense excitement among the military and civil population of Bulgaria, as well as the neighboring continental powers. They seem to be doing things in a hap-hazzard way out there.

CHAIRMAN Hensel retired from the Lancaster Intelligencer, of which paper he was the chief editor since 1874. Mr. Hensel will devote his time exclusively to the management of the Democratic campaign in Pennsylvania until the election. It is not known what he will do then but it is surmised that he will accept a position on the editorial staff of the Philadelphia Times. Mr. Hensel is a very able writer and would make a valuable member of the Times editorial department.

THE Chicago Anarchists are doomed to hang, except one who will go to the penitentiary for fifteen years. The jury gave their verdict on Friday, August 20th, finding Spies, Schwab, Fielden, Parsons, Fischer, Engel and Snigg guilty of murder and fixing the penalty at death. Neebe will slip through with fifteen years. A motion for a new trial will be heard in September court, and in the meantime the convicted still have hopes for their lives. But public sentiment is against them and the probabilities are that a new trial will be refused and the anarchists will be made an example of on the scaffold.

THE soldiers' orphans school question was again revived by the recent report of General Louis Wagner, who was recently appointed Inspector of those schools. Gen. Wagner visited all the schools and found that in many of them there still exists gross mismanagement. The report fully sustains Governor Pattison's position, and as during the Governor's investigations the schools at this time have again been found wanting in many respects. There are poor, worn-out buildings, the privies are foul, the bedding and table-ware are poorly kept, and the water supply in most cases is very poor. In some of the schools the rooms are overcrowded and in most of these institutions wash baisins, towels, combs and brushes are very scarce. Surely there is room for improvement.

THE Democrats assembled in state convention at Harrisburg last Wednesday and nominated an excellent ticket and adopted a healthy platform. In truth the result of the prompt and harmonious work of the convention must be gratifying to Pennsylvania's democracy, and at once fill them with strong hopes for a victory in November.

At half past nine o'clock in the forenoon W. U. Hensel, the chairman of the state committee called the convention to order. After some introductory work M. C. Herman, of Cumberland county was elected unanimously for temporary chairman. H. W. Scott of Northumberland Co., then offered a resolution for the appointment of committees on organization, resolution, &c., which resolution was adopted and the making of committees at once began. As soon as the committee on resolutions was announced a large number of ready-made resolutions were produced by the delegates, but all were referred to the committee. Considering the bulk of work which laid before the committees and in order to give them more time the convention took a recess until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Promptly at that time the chair again called the assemblage to order and it seemed the general desire to dispose of the business with dispatch, as all the delegates were at their posts in good time. The committee on permanent organization presented the name of Mortimer F. Elliot for permanent chairman. The convention received this nomination with much enthusiasm and Mr. Elliott took his place with a few words of thanks and encouragement to the party. The report of the committee on credentials was then read and adopted. Next in order was the report of the committee on resolutions and at this stage the platform as published below was read and adopted.

Platform.

1. The Democracy in Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, do declare that we reaffirm the Chicago platform of 1884, approved by the people in the election of Cleveland and Hendricks; that we favor a just and fair revision of the revenue laws in accordance with the letter and spirit of that declaration of Democratic principles, and in such revision care should be taken that such changes shall be made in spirit of fairness to all interests and without depriving American labor of the ability to successfully compete with foreign labor and without imposing lower rates of duty than will be ample to cover any increased cost of production which may exist in consequence of the higher rate of wages prevailing in this community.

2. That we endorse the Democratic reform administration of President Cleveland. It has given confidence to the business industries of the country, purged the departments of corruption, checked extravagance, discouraged class legislation and monopolies, elevated the civil service from the partisan debasement to which it had been reduced by previous administrations, and has made the people of the United States feel an assured confidence in the perpetuity and safety of the nation.

3. That we endorse the Democratic reform administration of Governor Pattison. It has rescued the Commonwealth from flagrant corruption, vigilantly guarded the public treasury, scrupulously protected the rights of the people, economically administered the Government, earnestly endeavored to enforce every provision of the Constitution, reformed the management of State institutions, exposed and corrected abuse in the Soldiers' Orphans' schools, redeemed the Pardon Board from scandals and executed all promises made by the candidates and party in 1882.

4. That we sympathize with labor in its efforts to make industrial and moral worth, not money, the true standard of individual and national greatness, and to secure to the workers the full enjoyment of the wealth they create and sufficient leisure in which to develop their intellectual, moral and social faculties; to this end we desire the enlargement of the Bureau of Statistics, the abrogation of all laws that do not bear equally upon capital and labor, and the prevention of the hiring out of convict labor; the adoption of measures providing for the health and safety and indemnification of injuries to those engaged in mining, manufacturing and building industries; the enactment of laws by which labor organization may be incorporated and arbitration extended and enforced, and a suitable apprenticeship act for the purpose of creating a better class of artisans and mechanics; the prohibition of the employment of children under 14 years of age in workshops, mines and factories; the strict and exact enforcement of the laws relating to pluck-me-stores and store orders and those relating to the accounting of industrial works; the appointment of inspectors to carry out these provisions, and a rigid enforcement of existing emigration laws, and exclude pauper, contract and assisted emigration.

5. That we pledge ourselves to the enforcement of articles 16 and 17 of the State Constitution, relative to private corporations, railroads and canals, by appropriate legislation.

6. That the State and local tax laws should be so altered and amended as to relieve farms and real estate from the present unfair and large proportion of taxation, and equalize the same so that personal estate would be made to pay its just part.

Resolved, That we lament the death of the Democratic leaders who upheld their political principles through years of distrust, injustice and wrong. Death does not dissolve the tie with which their virtues bound us. Our party's inspirations and hope come from the memory of lives and labors given to the service of our country. We lament the death of him whose life was happily prolonged until the wrong done in 1876 was made rigat, the Vice President, Thomas A. Hendricks. From Democratic councils has been taken the presence but not the influence of the purity of character, the lofty patriotism of the beloved soldier and citizen, George B. McClellan. We mourn the loss of the venerable satesman who elevated his party with the wisdom and integrity of Horatio Seymour. We know how Pennsylvania grieved for Winfield Scott Hancock. We cherish the memory of him in the shadow of whose death we meet and the sentiment which was adopted by a National Convention of our party gives him the best homage of freemen—the pledge of our devotion to the principles and cause now inseperable in the history of the Republic from the labors and name of Samuel J. Tilden.

The convention after the adoption of the platform proceeded with the nomination of candidates for Governor. P. N. Guthrie, Col. Henry McCormick, William A. Wallace, Robert Emmet Wright, S. P. Wolverton, Col. Robert Deckert, and lastly Lieut-Gov. Chauncey Forward Black were named. The nominations were then closed and the result of the first and only ballot was: Black, 193, Wallace, 129, McCormick, 12, Deckert 1.

The nomination of Lieut. Governor Black was made unanimous amidst enthusiasm and applause.

After the evening recess the convention finished its work by nominating R. Bruce Ricketts for Lieutenant Governor, J. Simpson Africa for Secretary of Internal Affairs, Wm J. Brennen for Auditor General, and Maxwell Stevenson for Congressman-at-Large. A committee of seven was appointed to notify the nominees of the action of the convention and the convention adjourned with three cheers for the ticket.

The ticket with Chauncey F. Black at its head is the strongest that could have been nominated and if supported by the party with unamnity and earnestness it will be successful in November. Short biographies of the men who compose the ticket appear on our first page. The candidates who by the way will prove aggressive leaders are backed by a platform that needs only be read to gain the approval of the people. All vital questions of the day are met squarely and in terms that may be understood by a child There are no unnecessary paragraphs in it, but every one of the resolutions is in close agreement with the time-honored priciples of the democracy.

We are ready for the fight now and if well-organized efforts and determination have anything to do with it we will win.

A Republican Rupture in Iowa.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Aug. 20.—The Republican Convention of the Second Iowa District, held here yesterday, resulted in a disruption. One wing, including the 37 delegates from Scott, Iowa and Johnson counties, met and nominated ex-Governor S J. Kirkwood, of Iowa City. The other wing, numbering 47 delegates from Muscatine, Clinton and Jackson counties nominated T. J. O'Meara, the Knights of Labor candidate.

Why the Call for the Redemption of Bonds was Made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Acting Secretary Fairchild made the following statement to-day in regard to the call for $15,000,000 of bonds issued yesterday: The receipts are unusually large just at this time. Silver is being absorbed by the people pretty well, and the conditions generally are quite favorable for such a call at this time. The call does not effect the money market enough to make the tight market a motive, as the bonds are mostly held by national banks, but what little effect it has is helpful, and the public may as well get the benefit of it. To suggest that it looked like following the Morrison resolution, the Secretary said, with a smile that it was more than that. He denied that the calls were made for political effect. The reason Secretary Manning had not made such calls, was that the conditions were not favorable. The thing had been overdone when he assumed control of the department and McCullough was in doubt about the result. When he went out Secretary Manning had to wait until the condition of the treasury would warrant any further reduction of the debt. To have gone on calling bonds with the treasury in the condition it was might have reduced the money to the single silver standard. It was not safe to call in more bonds at that time if the two metals, gold and silver, were to be kept on an equality.

Fire Nearly Destroys a Whole Town.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Yesterday afternoon the town of Earlville, Hudson county, was nearly destroyed by fire, caused by boys playing with matches in a barn. The only business place in the town left is one hotel. The loss is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000.

Messrs. Strawbridge & Clothier, the well-known dry goods merchants at Eighth and Market streets, Philadelphia, we are informed, have leased for a long period of years the property adjoining them on the west, now occupied by Hood, Bonbright & Co. They will take possession on or before January 1st, and adapt the new premises to their large and increasing business. This will make their establishment, including the present buildings, the largest retail dry goods house in the country devoted to that traffic exclusively, their premises covering 155 feet on Market street and extending on Eighth street northward to a depth of 306 feet to Filbert street.—Ex.

The River Low at Marietta.

MARIETTA, Pa., Aug. 22.—The Susquehanna river at this place was never lower than what it is now. The sandbars in the river are exposed at many places, and hundreds of tons of sand have been taken from them.

In a Cork Vest.

William J. Kendall, of Boston, Swims the Whirlpool Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 22.—William J. Kendall, of Boston, to-day swam successfully the whirlpool rapids of the Niagara river. The trial was made to settle a wager of $10,000 made by Boston parties. There were few spectators present, it having been kept quiet. He became unconscious upon landing and his assistants were fully half an hour in reviving him. When asked if he ever would make another trip, he said emphatically, "no; there is not enough money in the world to induce me to repeat this afternoon's experience. A child would have some chance to get through the rapids and come out all right as an expert swimmer."

What we are Indebted to the South for.

There appears in our columns to-day the advertisement of the well-known (and universally used in the Southern States) Simmons Liver Regulator. Years ago it won its way into every household of the South by pure, sterling merit. It there takes the place of a doctor and costly prescriptions. The medicine is becoming widely known in the North, and wherever used the demand for it has steadily increased. It is a family medicine, containing no dangerous and deleterious qualities, but purely vegetable, and so gentle in its action that it can be safely given to any person, no matter what age—the centenarian or the crowing youngster. Working people are often in that miserable state of health which really renders them unfit for labor; but they haven't time to take medicine and be sick. Simmons Liver Regulator can be taken without causing any loss of time, and the system will be built up and invigorated by it. The Regulator promotes digestion, dissipates nasty sick headache, and gives a strong, full tone to the system. In malarious climates it is invaluable, both protecting attack from the disease and expelling the poison after it has entered the system. It has no equal as a preparatory medicine, and can be safely used when a doctor cannot be called in. Persons of the very highest character and eminence have given Simmons Liver Regulator their cordial and hearty endorsement.

CUTTING TO BE RELEASED.

The Court to Decide that He Has Been Sufficiently Punished.

EL PASO, Tex., August 22.—By a special dispatch to the El Paso Times it has been learned that on Friday the Second Chamber of the Supreme Tribunal of this State took up the case of A. K. Cutting, and, after reviewing the entire evidence, the argument began. This did not last long. The attorneys pro and con had previously come to an agreement that the two months imprisonment already suffered by Cutting be considered a complete purgation of his crime." This makes it certain beyond a doubt that the sentence, which is to follow shortly, will conform to this agreement among the attorneys. The case was heard with closed doors.

LAWRENCE, Kas., August 22.—Mr. Mansfield, long a resident in this city, who carries on heavy mining opperations in old Mexico, has returned from the Municipal Mine, in Sonora, which he left on Tuesday. On Wednesday he visited Cutting in his cell at Paso del Norte, and says the editor was treated more like a guest than a prisoner. He was lightly guarded, had the best there was at the prison, and was held as a sort of prisoner of state. Mr. Mansfield thought the Mexican authorities would have been glad had the prisoner effected his escape, and would have put few obstacles in his way. The war feeling was decidedly on the increase on both sides of the Rio Grande. "The warlike spirit of the Mexicans," he said, "arises not so from active hostility to our Government and to our people as from their own turbulent condition and the internal dissensions that are distracting their people and paralyzing their General Government. The more intelligent Mexicans who, under other conditions, would be opposed to war rather favor it now, as they seem to think it will serve to quiet their own factions and make their own people united and harmonious. American citizens are treated most shamefully by the Mexican States and the Mexican General Government. Cutting is only the representative of a class. His wrongs are small in comparison to others, and as a consequence there is bad blood and a red hot feeling against Mexico on this side."

—The crop of sunflowers on Sammy Weiser's premises on Water street is very prominent for its size and vigor. If Sam is as happy as his sunflowers are big, then it must be good to be there.

—See new announcement of D. S. Kauffman & Co. As the warm season is coming to a close they are whittling down the prices and you will have a splendid opportunity of getting summer goods cheap.

—Israel, the genial salesman of New York, and his three mammoth clothing trunks, struck this town on Monday morning. He reports the business outlook in the city much brighter than it was last year about this time.

—J. Eisenhuth informs the public that he has added to his drug stock the celebrated KEYSTONE MALT WHISKEY and other pure liquors. Sold only on prescriptions of physicians, for medical use. 33-6m.

—There is enough at stake for democrats to be sure to register before September 2nd. For the present the registration is of most importance and every democrat should see to it that this part of the campaign work is done.

—Under the new law all persons paying taxes within sixty days from the date the duplicates are issued are entitled to a reduction of 5 per cent. and all who fail to pay inside of six months are charged 5 per cent. additional.

—W. J. Springer and family, and I. E. Musser, were among those from town who attended Swengle campmeeting on Sunday. They report that it was estimated that over 5000 people and about 1100 teams were on the ground.

—A new post-office has been established at Marsh Creek, this county. It is named Yarnall and Mr. Enock Hugg is the postmaster. This post-office is a short distance from Howard and about seven miles from Bellefonte. —Daily News.

—Plums are very plenty this year. In many instances the people have more than they know what to do with. The crop on Dan. Bressler's premises in Penn township is immense and the average size of his plums is that of a small hen's egg.

—Members of the G. A. R. post of this place met in their new hall in Musser & Smith's building on Main street last Monday evening and had a marching drill in their spacious quarters. They are getting in trim for the Lewisburg re-union.

—W. T. Mauck, our furniture man, changed the position of the large sign at his furniture store on Penn street. It spans the sidewalk now and may easily be seen at a distance. So when in search of furniture or wall paper look out for his sign.

—As you are aware, we carry a complete line of pure Drugs. But we would take occasion to inform or patrons that we just got in a new and large supply of drugs of all descriptions. In this line you can not go amiss by calling on D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—The nominating committee of the Prohibition party last Friday nominated the following for county officers : Robert Glen, of Ferguson township, and R. B. Hartman, of Millheim, for the Legislature ; C. E. Murray, of Philipsburg, for Prothonotary.

—The Liver is the largest gland in the human organism and stands guard, as it were, at the portals of health. Properly performing its functions it climinates all impurities and disease germs from the blood ; failing in this misery and disease follows. An occasional dose of McDonald's Improved Liver Pills will insure regular, healthy and vigorous action of this great gland, and save doctors' bills and days of misery. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

—Mrs. Mary Keen is off on a visit to her son, Frank, near Bellefonte.

—Mr. A. E. Kerlin, of Centre Hall, who held forth at Kauffman's store last week with a splendid stock of genuine oil paintings, found the market exceedingly dull for his articles. He rightly ascribed this fact to the general depression in business and the scarcity of money.

—The real estate of Michael Ney, deceased, in Aaronsburg, will be offered for sale by the administrator, H. E. Duck, on Saturday, Sept. 4th, next. It consists of two vacant lots in good cultivation, and another with a good dwelling house, weavershop, stable and other outbuildings erected thereon.

IT IS ESTIMATED that there are one hundred thousand sufferers from hay fever in the United States ; a number about four times greater than the regular standing army. This number could be reduced to a mere regiment if all would resort to Ely's Cream Balm. 52-4t.

—The fare for the roundtrip from Coburn to Lewisburg on the 9th of September will be $1.05. People anxious to get to Lewisburg should take advantage of the low excursion rates and spend a day pleasantly in witnessing the re-union of the Grand Army Republic posts of Central Pennsylvania.

—A party of citizens of this place, consisting of A. Walter, Dr. J. F. Harter, Dr. J. W. Stam, John Stoner and J. W. Snook, were to Bellefonte last Friday to stay the proceedings against W. S. Musser, which would have called about 60 witnesses to court this week. We believe they were successful.

—A large picnic to be held at Penn's Cave on the 11th of Sept and to be participated in by the people of Penns and Brush Valleys is being arranged at present. The several bands in the valleys have been invited to be there and it is the intention of the managers to make a gigantic affair out of it. We hope it will be a go.

Brace Up.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with Headache, you are fidgety, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up. Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour, and then leave you in a worse condition than before. What you want is an alterative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of Liver and Kidneys, restore your vitality, and give renewed health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only 50 cents a bottle at J. Eisenhuth's Drug Store.

—Dr. Stam, of this place, received news the other day, that his son, J. W. Stam, has removed from Maiden Rock, Wis., to Hawkeye, Iowa, and that he has started a store there. This brings John within ten miles of West Union, the place where his brother Russell is engaged in the mercantile business.

—The advertisement of the Penna. State College, appearing on our fourth page, announces the opening of the college to take place, on the 8th of Sept. The president and faculty of this well-known school are bending all their energies to a progressive course and in this they will no doubt be sustained by the regents as well as the people.

—S. D. Gray, Esq., a highly respected member of the Bellefonte bar, died at the residence of his father-in-law, Rev. William Laurie, on Monday forenoon, of cancer of the stomach. He had been practising law for about twelve years and filled several positions of responsibility during recent years. He was much esteemed by the people of Bellefonte for his true and noble Christian life.

NEW SHOEMAKER SHOP.—Mr. J. P. Sylvis, of Aaronsburg, has rented a room on the second story of J. W. Snook's building, corner of Main and North, where he is prepared to do all work in the boot and shoe line promptly and cheaply. He may be found at his bench any time during working hours and he invites the public to call on him and give him a liberal share of patronage. Next door to Geo. L. Springer's barber shop. 30-4t

—Mr. Fred. Morris and wife, of Logansville, accompanied by his brother, who is employed on the Clinton Democrat, Lock Haven, and a Miss Zeigler, were guests at the hospitable home of Dr. Geo. S. Frank, several days last week. Their genial hostess accompanied the party to the cave on Saturday and their stay in town was made very enjoyable due to the royal entertainment they received at the hands of the doctor and his lady.

OPINION OF A LEADING EDITOR.—Almost all the diseases that afflict us from infancy to old age have their origin in a disordered liver. A really good liver medicine is the most important in the whole range of pharmacy. We believe Simmons Liver Regulator to be the best among them all. We pin our faith upon the Regulator, and if we could persuade every reader who is in ill health to buy it, we would willingly vouch for the benefit each would receive.—ED. CINCINNATI GAZETTE.

—No one, better than the mothers, knows the amount of persuasion, threatenings and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm syrups; and no one more highly appreciates the virtues of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. So pleasant and easy to take, so effective as a worm destroyer, the dose so small that the children never know they are taking a medicine. There is nothing in the shape of a vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived, Take no other. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

—The second quarterly conference of Brushvalley charge will be held at the Yearick church on the 28th and 29th inst. Business meeting on Saturday, the 28th, at 2 o'clock, p. m. and preaching in the evening. Preaching on Sunday forenoon at 10.30 o'clock, and in the evening. Rev. J. M. Ettinger, P.E. of the district will be with us at all these meetings. H. S. BASOM, Pastor.

A SAD OCCURRENCE.—Ella, a nine-year old daughter of Adam Decker, near Hublersburg, was burned to death by her clothing taking fire last Saturday afternoon. It happened in this way : Mrs. Decker was in the act of dressing a chicken when her little daughter asked permission to singe the feathers, which was granted her. The flames caught her clothing which burned rapidly. The little girl run out of the house and around it twice before she could be stopped and her flesh was burned to a crisp and fell from her. She died of her injuries the following day, Sunday.

RESPOND.—We have this week sent out a large lot of statements to our delinquent subscribers, of whom we carry many more on our list than we like. Now we would say to the parties concerned in all kindness that we do not only mean to show them by these slips how their accounts stand, but we earnestly desire an early settlement of said accounts. As often said before it takes the wherewithal to run a newspaper office and as long as the money due us is in the pockets of our subscribers it don't do us a bit of good. Please do not cast our bills aside and think "some other time will do," but give them your immediate attention and respond to our call.

—The prohibition lecture on Monday evening was listened to with much interest by a large crowd of people. Mr. Mills, the lecturer, is a forcible speaker, is master of his subject, and in most of his arguments hits the nail square on the head. But to come down to the real object of his lectures which may easily be guessed by his question—"Why do men vote the democratic or republican ticket" the size of the matter is that neither republican nor democrats will vote the prohibition ticket because the former do not want to go back on Beaver and the latter will not forsake Black. In other words they may profess to be prohibitionists in principle but they don't like the third political party. And there the thing rests.

AARONSBURG.

A good soaking rain would be in season for the farmers, who are preparing for fall seeding.

B. F. Beaver and wife, from State College, are here visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Beaver holds the position of head janitor at the college.

The birthday party last week at Mr. and Mrs. Clark Herman's for their daughter Leah, was enjoyed very much by the little folks who were in attendance. They say the ice cream and cake were splendid. Several fine presents were left for their little friend and playmate.

There is scarcely a citizen in our town who does not own one or more acres of land close to town, therefore a large majority are out either raising potatoes or preparing for fall seeding.

Rev. F. J. Fredrick, (Luth.) of the Nippenose charge, Lycoming Co., Pa., paid a visit to his native burg last week. In the language of our school-boy days we feel like saying: "Why is it, Thomas, that you have not as yet preached one sermon for us ? Let your next visit here be during a Sabbath, we will see to the rest.

Jacob M. Stover, Chas. H. Stover and C. G. Bright, with their respective families, formed themselves into a Penn's Cave picnic on last Friday. They got there in time for an old-fashioned dinner under the apple tree, after which they paid an interior visit to the cave. They report a very pleasant time.

On last Monday Mr. D. H. Lenker and wife returned from Dauphin Co., where they had been summoned to attend the funeral of the wife of Francis Lenker, nephew of D. H. Lenker.

The attendance of the entertainment on last Saturday evening in the old Reformed church was unusually large, but the noise on the gallery was considerable larger. Eye hath not seen, nor ear ever heard the like before; of course Millheim (as usual) had no part in the gallery exercises. Too much noise around us accounts for no better report of the entertainment proper. How is it, San ?

SPRING MILLS.

R. H. Duncan, Esq., formerly a resident of this place is here on business. Mr. Duncan has a host of friends here who are all glad to see him and give him a shake by the hand.

Dr. W. V. Runkle, of Philadelphia, is visiting his mother in this place. The doctor has the reputation of being a physician of the first water and is employed by the best people in the city.

Money orders and postal notes can be obtained at our post office. This is certainly a great convenience to the public and shows that our P. M. is trying to have the best and latest accomodations. *

Most Excellent.

J. J. Atkins, Chief of Police, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: "My family and I are beneficiaries of your most excellent medicine, Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; having found it to be all that you claim for it, desire to testify to its virtue. My friends to whom I have recommended it, praise it at every opportunity." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup and every affection of Throat, Chest and Lungs.

Trial Bottle Free at J. Eisenhuth's Drug Store. Large Size $1.00.

SMITH TOWN.

A number of our citizens left on Monday, bound for Bellefonte to attend court.

Miss Ida Keen was on the sick list last week.

J. H. Reifsnyder has his new house up and has men at work on the wall for the barn on his farm. He intends to divide the farm so as to make two as soon as the buildings are completed.

Brushvalley furnished quite a number of visitors to this place the past few days. The Misses Neese and Miss Harter were the guests of Lizzie Keen, Cal. Frank and family stayed at Elias Krumrine's and Wm. Stover's, and Mr. Confer and wife were at the residence of their son-in-law, Mr. Nerhud's.

Miss Annie Smith, of Millheim, was also here visiting relatives.

David Kimport and son were to Centre Hall on Sunday to attend the reopening of the M. E. church.

Wood Mark, who for quite a while was in the western states returned home last week.

Last Friday Henry Keen's horse tore loose in Millheim but was caught before any damage had been done.

Some of our farmers think of sowing next week.

The racoons are doing considerable damage to our cornfields. Now if ye sportsmen would shoot them, the farmers would be greatly pleased.

W. F. Smith says he bailed his hogs out of jail to appear at the next court. The borough folks are rather rough on our hogs. JUMBO.

[Can't help it, hogs are hogs.—Ed.]

—Testimonials many times are cut from the whole cloth, and for every one voluntarily given in praise of a meritorious article an unscrupulous and dishonest manufacturer can write up a dozen for his worthless products ; but the following card from the traveller of Sower, Potts & Co., a publishing house known in almost every state in the Union, is so emphatic and to the point that we cannot refrain from giving it in evidence :

'Georgetown, Pa.

J. A. McDonald, Dear Sir :—Please forward by express at once one bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial to C. F. Camp, Esq., Stroudsburg, Monroe Co., Pa. It cured me so quickly and completely last summer that I recommend it highly to all my friends.'

Single bottle guaranteed to cure any case of cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, summer complaint, cramps or any intestinal irritation whatever, or money refunded in every instance. Should have a place in every household and every traveler's satchel.

REBERSBURG.

Peaches and plums are plenty, but apples are scarce.

The clover seed crop will be cut short again by that pestilent little insect, the weevil, which did so much damage in former years.

Several of our young men have organized a debating society and meet every Thursday evening in the school house, where some interesting subjects will be discussed.

Ed. Miller, son of our townsman, Adam Miller, left on last Saturday for Selinsgrove, where he will attend school.

One day last week while John Stires and Calvin Crouse were hauling in oats for Dan. Royer, their four-horse team took fright and ran away. Calvin in attempting to jump off the wagon was thrown to the ground with terrific force, his head striking first. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and bleeding from several deep gashes in his head. Medical aid was at once procured and Cal. is doing as well as possible under such circumstances.

Milton Burkert, of Ohio, is at present here visiting his parents. His mother is on the sicklist and there are grave doubts of her recovery.

Jno. Wolf, better known as Gen. Wolf, of near Wolf's store, left one day last week for Florida, where he expects to purchase a home and locate permanently with his family.

The people of Wolfe's store will hold a Sunday school picnic in a grove near James Cormans, on Saturday, August 28. A good time is anticipated. Come one, come all.

Lewis Bierly, accompanied by his sister Irene, left on last Saturday for Nittany Valley, where they will spend a week visiting friends and relatives.

Harvey Bierly has the contract for raising Jno. Wolf's potatoes. This at least gives Harvey employment for several weeks as the acreage as well as the crop are large.

The Snyder county carpenters have resumed work on Jacob Gephart's barn. It seems as though they were bound to finish the barn in spite of the previous blunders in the frame work. We hope the boys will succeed better this time.

The lecture given by Walter Thos. Mills, of New York, on last Saturday evening in the Evangelical church was laagely attended. This lecture was good and every person present seemed to appreciate it.

A desease similar to hog cholera and which proves fatal in most cases has made its appearance among Dan. Royer's hogs. We hope Dan may find some remedy which will prevent the desease from spreading. SQUIBOB.

COBURN.

The absence of rain has caused a number of wells in this place to go dry and everything looks dead for the want of rain.

Quite a number of people went to Bellefonte on Monday and quite a number did not go who expected to go. 46 tickets were sold at our station.

Harvey Musser who has been visiting his parents in Aaronsburg left for Akron, Ohio, this (Tuesday) morning.

The wife of our railroad agent has been laying very low, but we are glad to hear that she is slowly improving.

Mrs. Katherman, of Mifflinburg, has been here the last week waiting on her daughter, Mrs. Kreamer.

The picnic next Saturday promises to be a success. The Millheim band has been engaged for the occasion and three or four Sunday schools are to be in attendance. VALE.

J. Simpson Africa.

J. Simpson Africa, who was selected as the candidate for the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs, was born in the town of Huntingdon, which is still his home, on September 15, 1832. He is descended from Revolutionary stock through the Simpsons, of Bucks, and Murrays, of Lancaster. He was educated at the Huntingdon Academy, and after completing his studies there he adopted the profession of surveyor and civil engineer, and has since then devoted his entire time (except when engaged in public duties) to his profession, and was first employed as a civil engineer in the location of the Broad Top Railroad. In 1853 he was elected County Surveyor of Huntingdon county on the Democratic ticket over the nominee of the Whig party, and served until 1857. He served as one of the Clerks in the Senate during the sessions of 1858 and 1859. In October, '59, he was elected to the House of Representatives over the Republican nominee. He was several times elected Burgsss of his native borough, and is identified with the leading business enterprises there. In May, 1875, he was appointed by Gen. McCandless Deputy Secretary of Internal affairs, and upon him fell the labor of organizing the new Department of Internal Affairs created by the Constitution of 1873 He gave the duties of the office his undivided attention. In May, 1878, he was nominated as Gen. McCandless' successor by the Democratic Convention, receiving 156 votes to 67 for two other candidates. His Republican opponent, who was elected to the office in November of that year, was Colonel Aaron K. Dunkel, of Philadelphia, but Mr. Africa led his ticket by from 4,000 to 14,000 votes. In Feb 1880, Mr. Hayes appointed him Supervisor of the Census for the Seventh district of Pennsylvania, an office for the duties of which he was peculiarly qualified. In June, 1882, he was again placed on the Democratic ticket for the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs by acclamation, and this time he was elected through the Republican dissensions which carried Pattison and the whole Democratic ticket through. Mr. Africa's discharge of his official duties have been painstaking and conscientous from first to last, and he thoroughly understands the duties of an office of which he was practically the creator.

Maxwell Stevenson.

Maxwell Stevenson, who was nominated for Congressman-at-Large, was born on February 1, 1847, near Londonderry, Ireland, of that Scotch-Irish stock noted for its energy and ability. He was brought to Philadelphia in December, 1851, when not quite five years old, and been a resident there ever since. His early struggles for advancement were untiring and severe, but no more striking than thousands of others. He left school between the ages of 12 and 13, after reaching the class in Jackson Grammer School preparatory to the High School. During the years of 1859 and 1860 he was engaged in hard, unremitting work on the truck farms of the 'Neck.' 1861 he obtained work as an errand boy in a shoe store. A year later he bought the outfit of a news stand. In connection with this business he got the right to canvass for subscribers to the Evening Telegraph, and so satisfactorily was his work that Mr. Charles E. Warburton, the proprietor, without regard to the boy's youth unhesitati gly and generously assigned to him an important newspaper territory. Soon after this he bought a 'schorlarship' in a business college and devoted himself to securing a thorough business training. He rapidly improved his mind and from then until 1873 was employed as bookkeeper by several firms. In all of these years Stevenson's ambition was to become a lawyer, and to that end he had already, in 1870, registered as a student with E. Coppee Mitchell, afterwards transferring it to the late Judge I. L. Pratt, and on October 31, 1874, after a highly creditable examination, was admitted to the bar, being at that time somewhat over 27 years of age. Since his admission to the bar his life has been well known to the public. His first public interest in the labor movement was as its unanimously chosen candidate for Congress in the First District. It was hoped that the Democrats would also nominate him, but the nomination in the convention was lost to him by a majority of only ten votes. In this canvas, without an inside officer, with both organizations bitterly opposed to him, he made a plucky fight getting a count of nearly 4,300 votes. He has ever been an active Democrat from conviction, but deeply in sympathy with every movement for the advancement of labor everywhere. And that no man should charge that his interests in the great struggle of labor for recognition was prompted by mercenary or selfish motives, he has absolutely refused compensation for any services rendered to any properly identified member of organized labor.

Automatic Sewing Machine Co.
72 West 23d St., New York, N. Y.

We invite special attention to our NEW PATENT AUTOMATIC TENSION MACHINE, making precisely the same stitch as the Wilcox & Gibbs, and yet, if not preferred to the Wilcox & Gibbs Automatic Tension Machine, can be returned any time within 30 days and money refunded. But what is more remarkable still, we never knew a woman willing to do her own family sewing on a shuttle machine after having tried our new Patent AUTOMATIC.
Even Shoe Manufacturers find it best suited to their work—its elastic seams are more durable. Truly—Automatic Sewing Machines are fast superseding shuttle machines, and it is no use to deny it. Truth is mighty and does prevail. Shuttle Machines have seen their best days.
